

Workers' Comp Network Facts – Claims Transfer

Carriers may elect to transfer certain existing claims into the network, provided that the injured employee lives in a network service area. The insurer is required to notify the injured employee in writing of the change.

Common Questions:

- How will an injured employee whose claim has been selected for transfer be contacted? The network will call the injured worker to notify them of network requirements and there will be follow-up with a certified letter.
- Is the notification to the injured employee provided via certified mail? Yes, all notifications are being sent via certified mail.
- If the injured employee's claim is moved into the network, what is the time frame for the injured employee to choose an in network doctor? The claimant will have 14 days from the date that they were notified that the claim is being transferred into the network to select a network treating doctor.
- When does the 14-day timeframe start? Does it start when the certified letter is received? The 14-day clock starts from the date of signature that appears on the certified mail green card.

Resources:

Employee Notice (English)	Employee Notice (Spanish)
Service Area Map	