Produce results

The Texas Produce Association may not be able to grow money on trees, but its members may save money by joining its workers' compensation group purchase program.

The group serves produce-related growers, shippers and material providers.

Harvest group benefits

Workers' comp coverage is still the only insurance available that provides medical and income benefits for injured workers and legal protection for employers.

By joining the Texas Produce Association group purchase program, your company will retain its own experience modifier, and it will receive a premium discount based on the group's total premium. Eligible policyholders can earn an additional discount by participating in Texas Mutual Insurance Company's workers' comp health care network. Your company may also qualify for an individual and group dividend.*

Lettuce help

Texas Produce Association members benefit from claim and loss prevention services, including a safety plan developed specifically for the produce industry. Any licensed Texas agent can submit qualifying clients for consideration in the group.

By partnering with Texas Mutual Insurance Company, the state's leading provider of workers' comp insurance, the Texas Produce Association helps its members get the most value from their coverage.

Group roots

State law allows employers in similar businesses to buy their workers' comp coverage as a group, with approval from the Texas Department of Insurance (TDI).

The Texas Produce Association is a TDI-approved group purchase program for growers; domestic, import and specialty shippers; distributors; and material and service providers. For a list of eligible class codes, visit www.texasmutual.com, or call (800) 859-5995.
